

Forestry Economics Services itself offers a general consulting service on many aspects of forestry particularly on economic, financial and commercial issues. However, we are also able to recommend other trusted companies who have the necessary expertise to advise clients specifically on how to achieve savings identified in our cost benchmarking analyses if required. Requests for our economics services typically come from people within the industry as well as from financial, banking, Government and other business sectors.